THE
SENIOR CLASS OF
JOHN MARSHALL HIGH SCHOOL
ROCHESTER, NEW YORK
presents the

1945 JOHN QUILL

FOREWORD

We are today's youth.
Brought up on Mother Goose and nursery rhymes
And nurtured by true love and gentleness
Which, half forgotten, dwell in troubled hearts
And are recalled in times of quietness—
In reminiscent moods: in solitude,
We travel back to days when Mother Goose
Would spread enchanting wings over us
That we might from our earthly cares break loose.

We are today's youth.
And just as Mother Goose had come to be
A kind protector and friend in childhood days
So the Tower, holding its silent peace
Has magnified itself in many ways.
When we, the challenged youth depart,
When classrooms form the past and school
is done,
Ours will be an eternal vision glorious
Of shimmering wings and a Tower in the sun.

JCS

BURT

*Willard Burt.
Best of luck
to you
Jack.*

To Mr. C. Willard Burt, as acting principal, we, the class of June 1945, dedicate this book. He faced an almost overwhelming job during the past year. In spite of special war time and emergency weather conditions, his diplomacy, integrity, and patience maintained school life and studies on an even keel.

While executing his regular and routine duties, Mr. Burt dealt with problems pertaining to the school and its relation to community life as well as problems concerning activities of nationwide importance. This year coal and labor shortages, crowded bus situation, the employment of students after school, and the preparation of students for war service required much of his time and wisdom.

Although he encouraged responsibility and initiative on the student's part, the Executive Council and various other school committees benefited by his wise council, his sympathetic imagination, and his sincere interest in all student undertakings.

Mrs. Jessie Barry

Mrs. Barry had a busy year guiding the older girls in their choice of college, job hunting, personality adjustment, and financial problems. At the same time, she worked with the G. S. O., Executive Council, and social committee.

Her wisdom and capability of handling several situations at the same time won her a place in the heart of the entire school.

Leon C. Friel

Daily, Mr. Friel dealt with increased problems as many older boys prepared to leave for one of the armed forces or college, before or immediately after graduation.

Throughout the year, he gained fame as adviser, unprejudiced disciplinarian, and friend to anyone who needed sympathetic understanding.

Dorothy B. Champney

Miss Dorothy Champney

Few girls will forget Miss Champney's gentle guidance in those first bewildering weeks at Marshall or her cheery smile and welcome advice on program planning, vocational guidance, and other personal problems.

Her untiring interest in the girl's problems, no matter how trivial, coupled with her sense of humor, endeared her to the femininity of the school.

James Wishart

Besides working with the younger boys, their problems and escapades, Mr. Wishart found time to give his advice on personal and homework problems to many older boys and girls also. Throughout the year, he was an active member of many faculty committees as well as an adviser for the B. S. O. and Executive Council.

Students and faculty alike considered him as "an all around good fellow".

Greetings to the Senior Class of June 1945

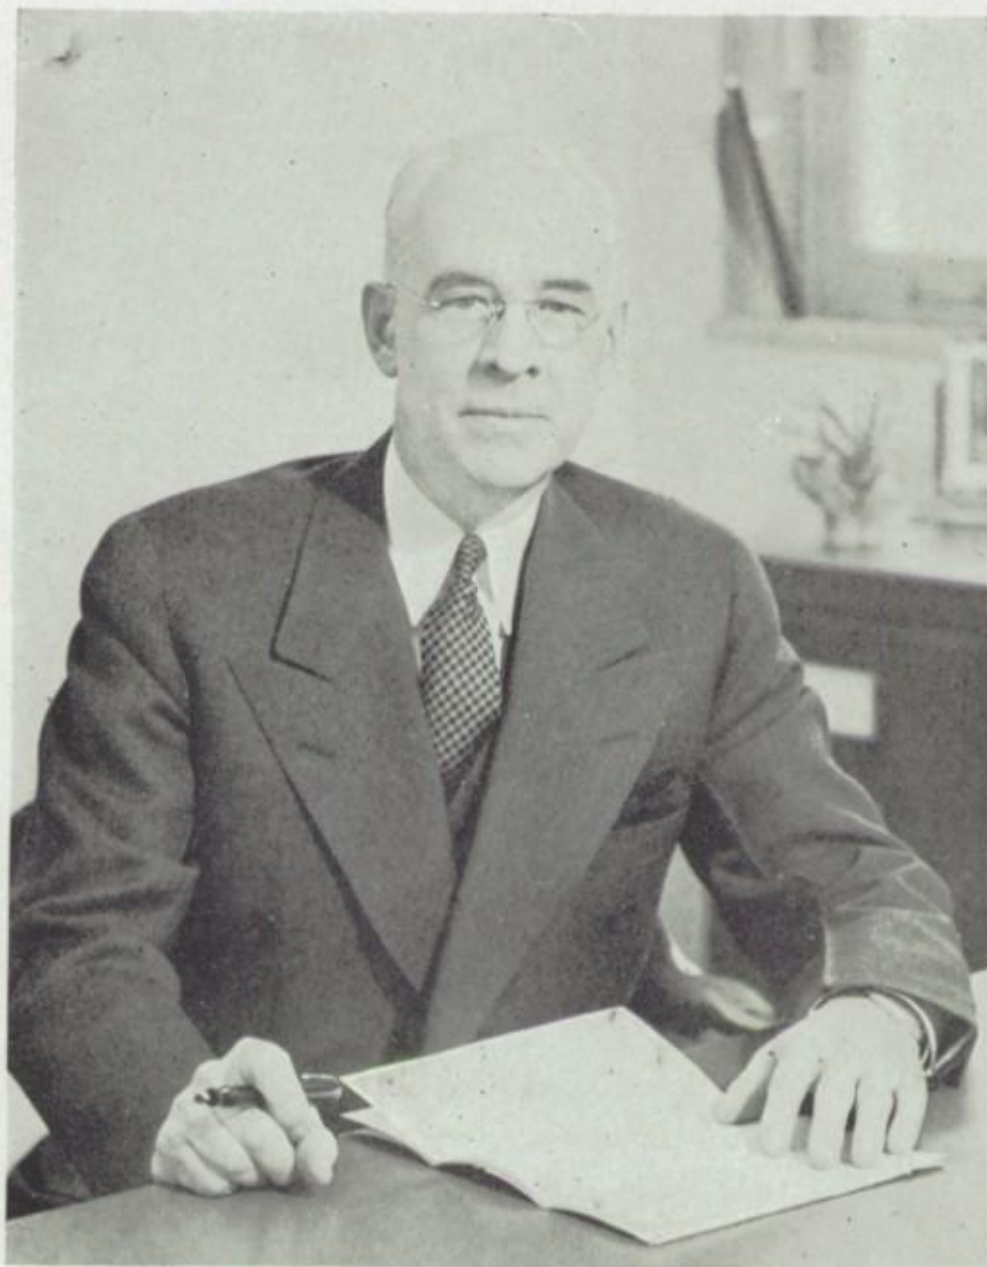

An airplane with its heavy load laboriously climbs to gain altitude. When gained, it may level off and complete a long flight, or it may flounder and crash. You have been getting ready for your take-off. Have you provided yourself with sufficient fuel and equipment to take you to higher altitudes? Will your flight be fast and its direction sure, or will you find it necessary to drop to lower levels where progress is much slower and much more uncertain?

As a senior class you have shown commendable activity; you have thought of providing pleasure for your members and members of former classes now in their country's service. In so doing you have climbed to a higher level.

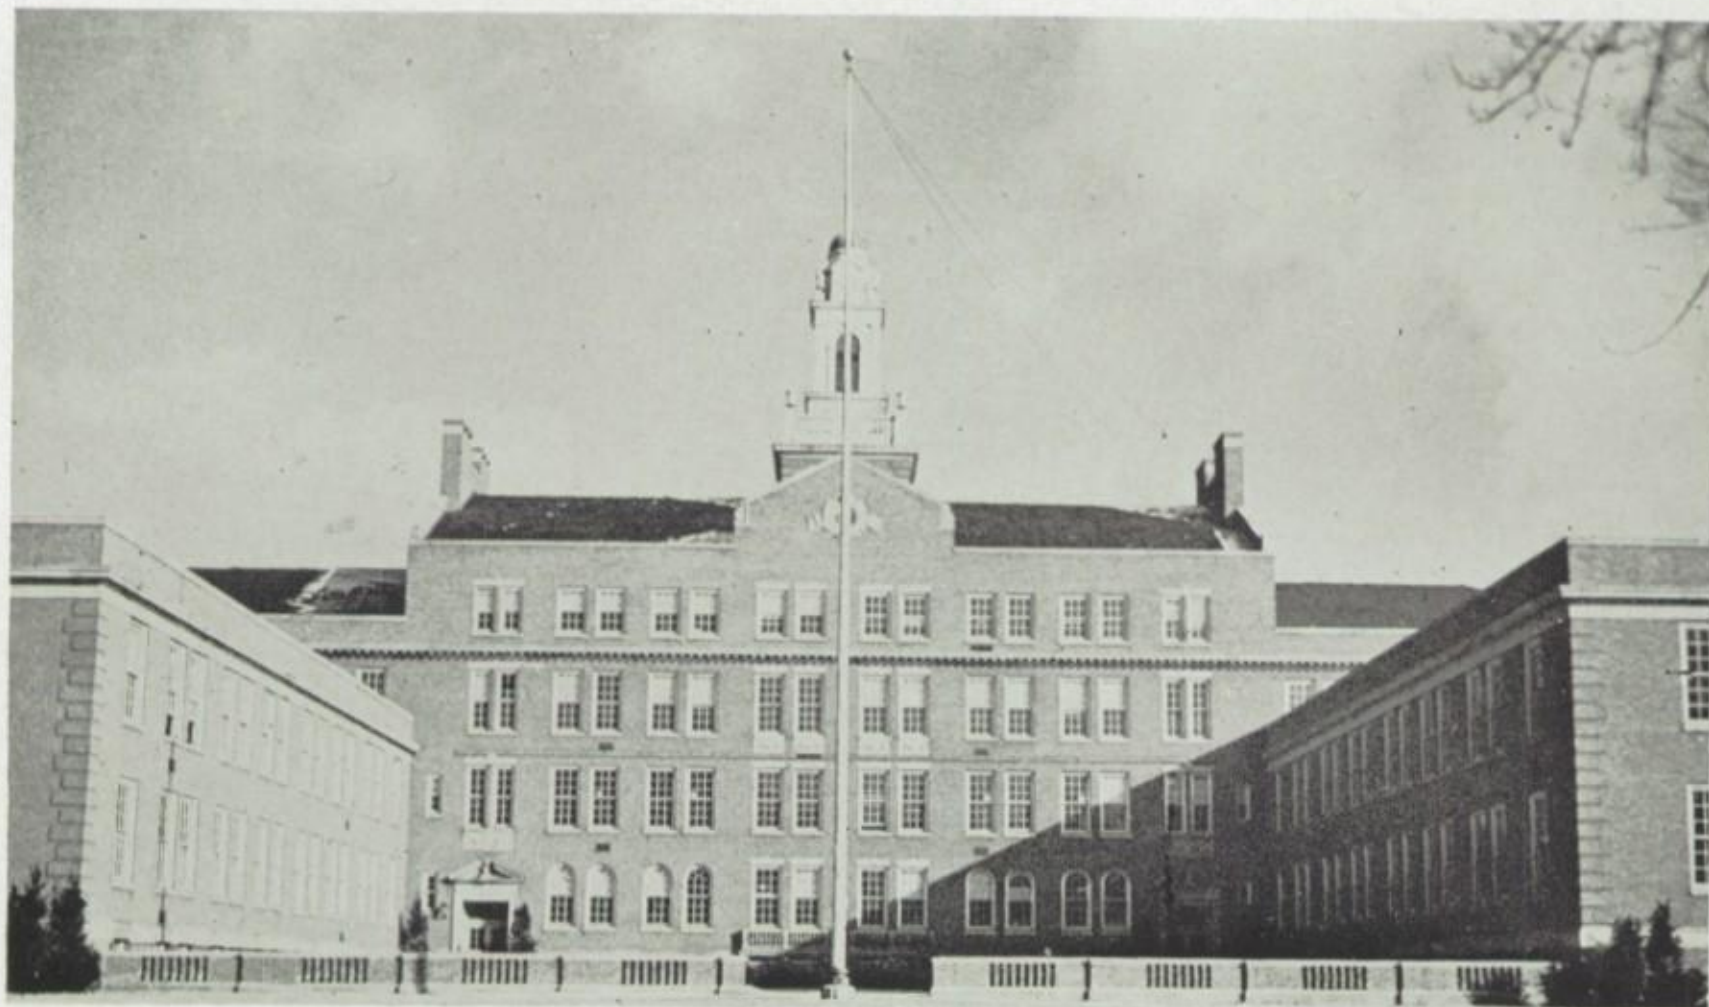

As individuals you have provided yourselves with good equipment, but that equipment will necessarily keep you from gaining more altitude unless you continually add to it. The distance you travel will be determined by the kind of fuel you add.

So good luck on your take-off. Keep adding high octane. Happy landing!

Sing a song of sixpence, a pocket full of rye
Four and twenty seniors all in Marshall High
When the doors are opened, they'll go their different ways
Holding on to memories of precious school days.

Some will go to college, others industry
Doctors, nurses, teachers, and writers they'll be
Many careers to follow and dreams to fulfill
New worlds lie before them to be conquered at will.

Last Will And Testament

We, the Class of '45, being of draft age, quizzical mind, and brilliant memory after four years of John Marshall, do make, publish, and declare this to be our Last Will And Testament, hereby revoking all former wills:

Item 1 To the Eighth Graders, we leave the choice seats in the balcony where they will have a "bird's eye view" of affairs.

Item 2 To the Ninth Graders, we leave the Library; the books, the magazines, and the deep intellectual secrets discussed there.

Item 3 To the Tenth Graders, we bequeath the lunch room lines, with the hope that their saving ability will aid them...

Item 4 To the Eleventh Graders, we bequeath the Marshall Tower, Marshall's closest point to Heaven, and appoint them guardian angels.

Item 5 To our Alma Mater, we leave the hallowed halls which we have tread each day, the intimate classrooms where we have learned more than book knowledge from friendly teachers, and from the shouts, the laughter, and the serious debates which have echoed throughout the school. Also, we leave memories of school days, filled with experiences which will always live in the hearts of the Class of '45.

In witness whereof we have hereunto set our hand to this our Last Will And Testament at Rochester, New York, this twenty-first day of June, A.D. 1945.

The Class Of '45

Simple Simon went a-fishing in the wisdom pool,
All the knowledge he had learned was from a grammar school.
Then he went to high school to see if he could find
A path that might lead him to a developed mind.
That path was lined with test tubes and math equations new,
Parts of speech, and Cicero, history problems too.
As Simple Simon had to fish for this wisdom he would gain
We, with eager hearts and minds, have tried to do the same.

SEATED: Kenneth Fulkerson, Head of Social Studies Department; Mrs. Jane Jones, Mrs. Mary Murphy, Miss Grace Leader, Miss Mary Foley, Head of English Department; Mrs. Ida Silver.

"WHITHER DOST THOU WANDER"

Citizenship, one of the cardinal principles in the Social Studies Department, received special emphasis this year as the leaders realized the proximity of our new world neighbors.

To be a coordinated individual one must be ready to take his place in the world—not only in business but in the social life as well. The English Department taught the ability to organize thought and to express it fluently; it widened horizons by lessons in the intelligent use of the radio, the newspaper, and in the enjoyment of the best books of all times.

"A LINGUIST EXCELLENT WAS HE"

While students of Latin, Spanish and French increased their vocabularies and learned to trill their R's; the business department taught students to "translate" shorthand, to understand office machines and the complexities of business.

STANDING: Frank Shantz, Clayton DeLong, David Brady, Head of the Business Department; Donald Clark, Head of the Foreign Language Department; Mrs. Ruth Huntington, Mrs. Lucille Keech, Raymond Wright, Mrs. Grace Fuller, Miss Helen Lathrop, Ray Clippinger, Mrs. Agnes Powers, Miss Isabel Mayo, Miss Florence Chitenden.

"THE RULE OF THREE" DOES PUZZLE ME

Einstein and Curie, had they been witnesses, would have watched with joyous eyes the extensive work of the Mathematics and Science Departments in the past year.

New additions pertaining to the war effort enriched the knowledge of the students, especially those who planned to enter the Armed Forces.

"TO MAKE THE CHILDREN LAUGH AND PLAY"

Striving to turn out physically-fit, poised individuals the gym department stressed army and navy exercises and apparatus work.

For twelve weeks both boys and girls received a workout on the horse, buck, and spring board, resulting in the mastering of muscle-control.

Because of the polio epidemic and fuel shortage, the swimming schedule was greatly curtailed. All winter, until March, the pools remained closed.

IN MEMORIAM OF MRS. EVA MILLIMAN

"Sunset and evening star,
And one clear call for me.
And may there be no moaning of the bar,
When I put out to sea."—Tennyson

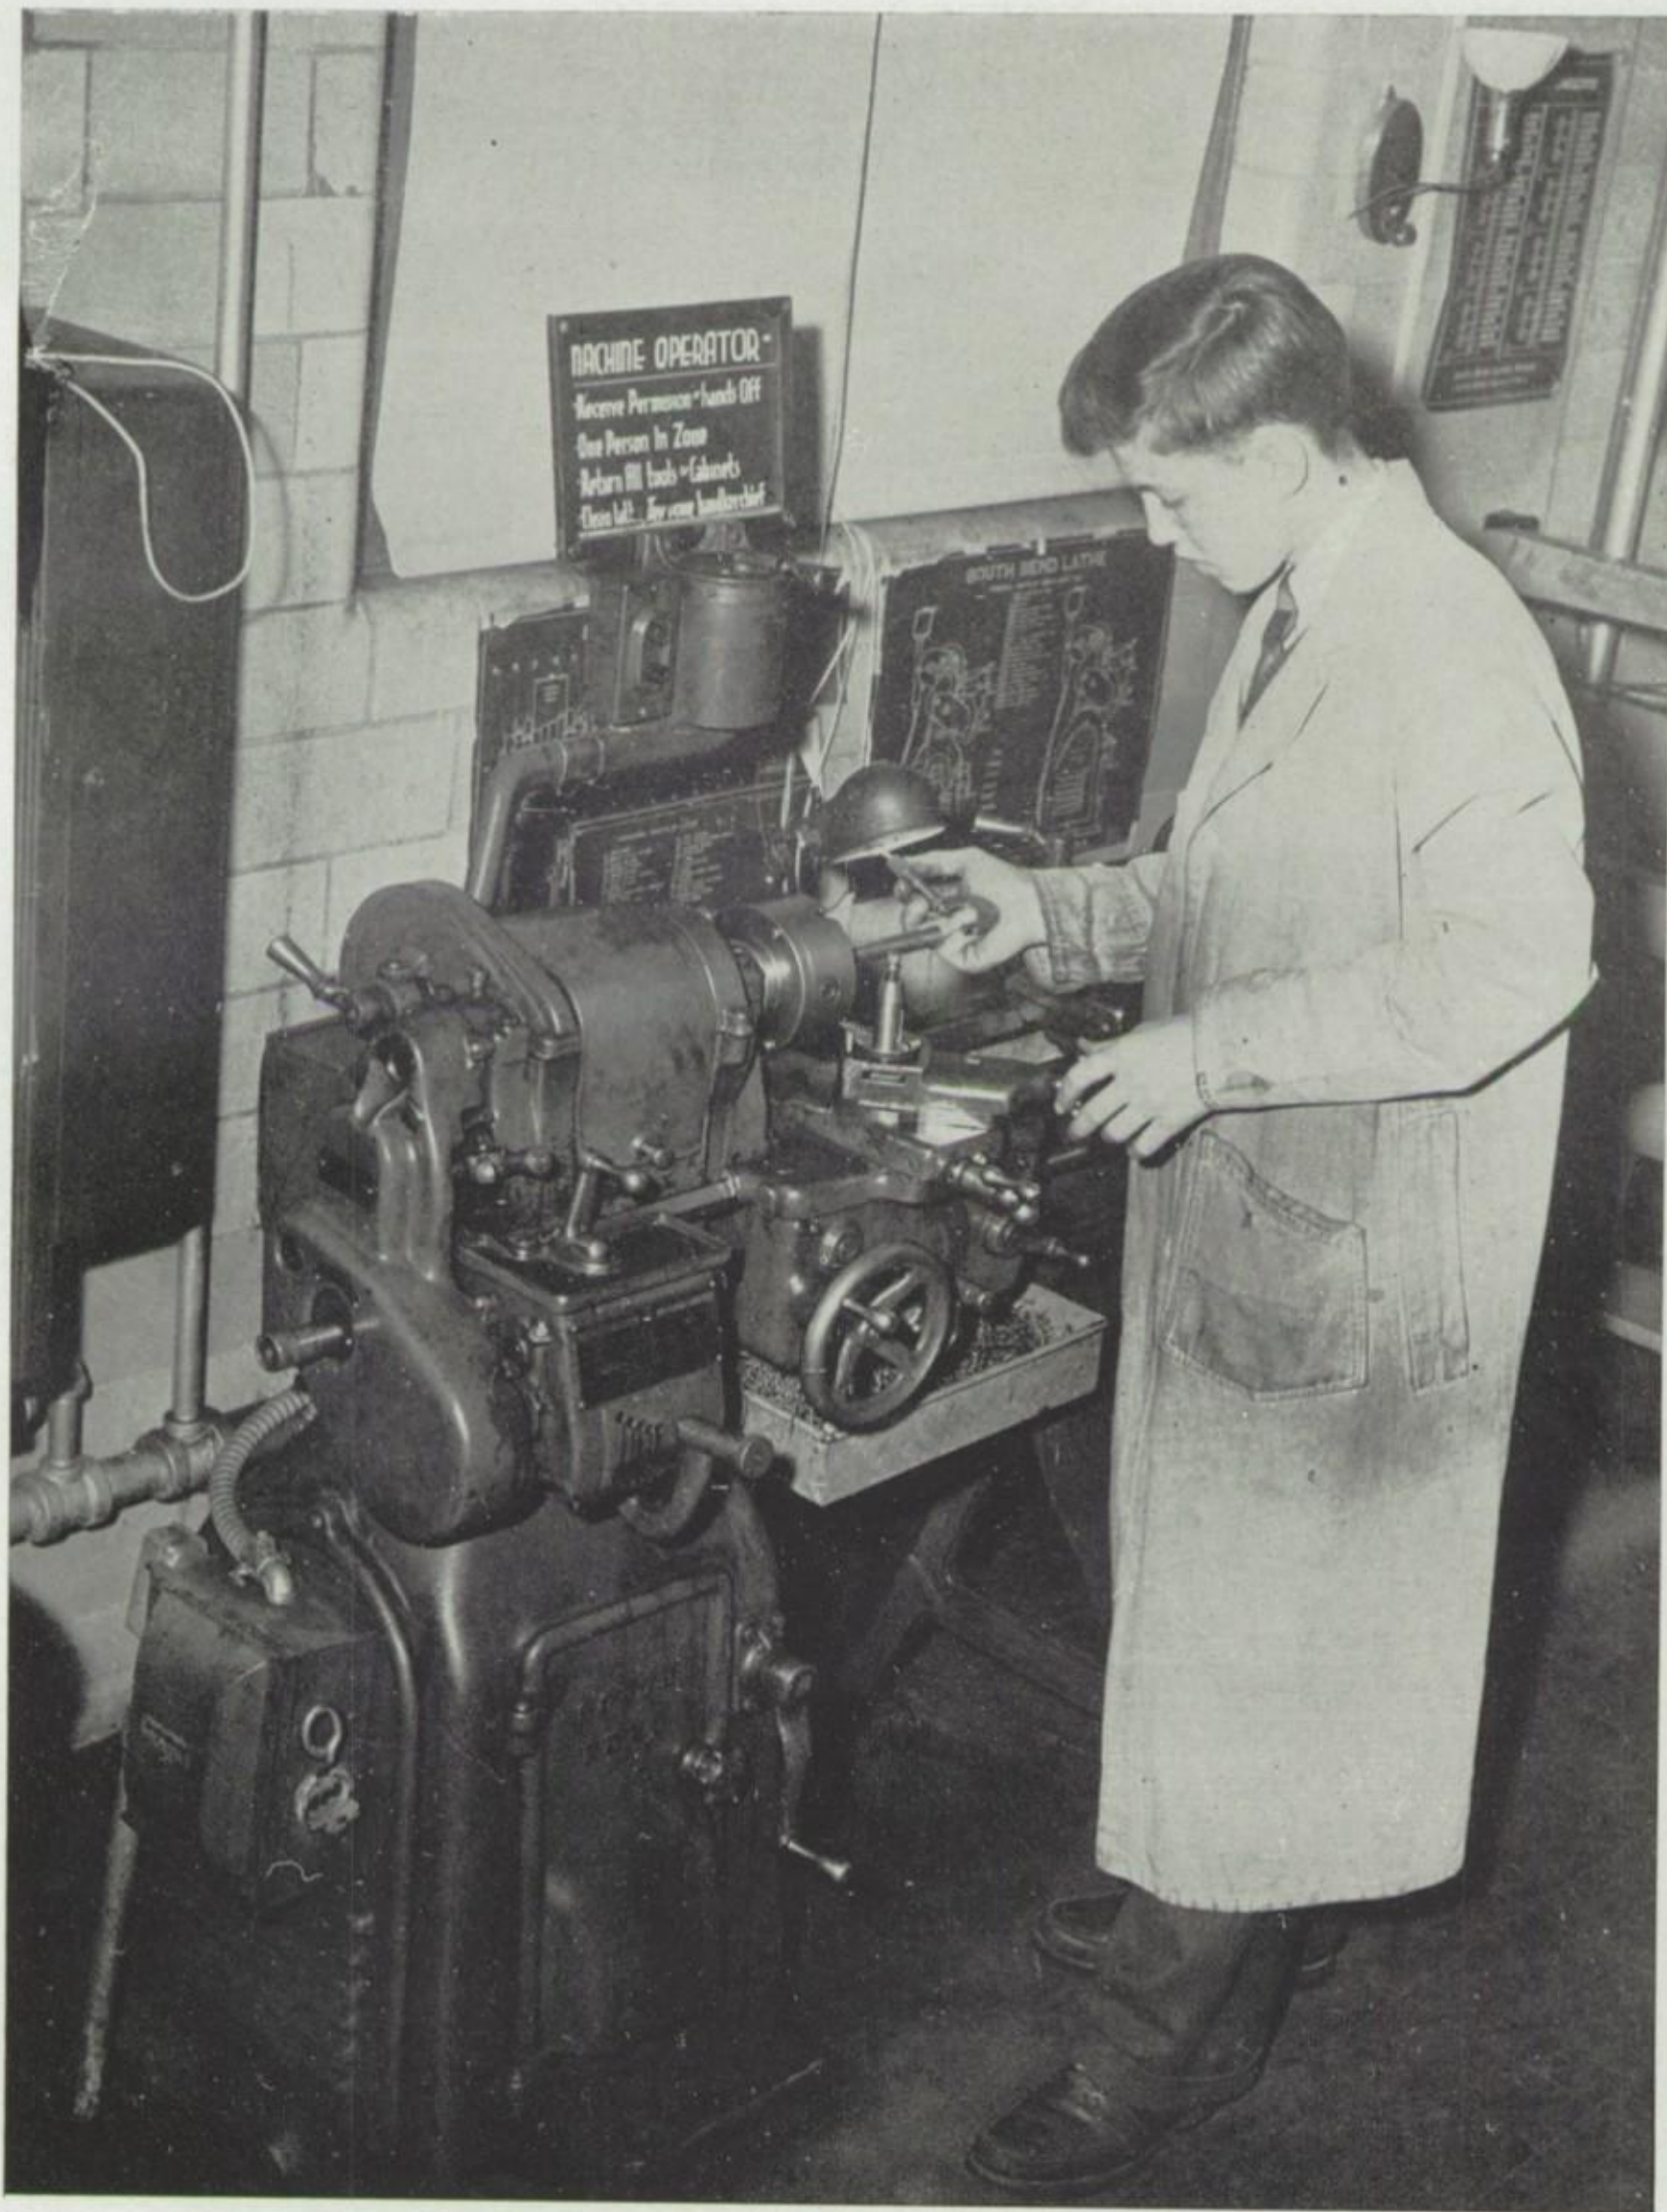

Mrs. Eva Milliman did not die; she fulfilled her obligation here on earth and passed on to a well-deserved rest. To say that she "died" is not true; for though her physical being is dead, her memory will continue to live and to inspire us.

Her character was beautiful; her smile perpetual. No one really knew what great conflicts she conquered, for she was always cheerful.

She was an art teacher, but more than that—a friend. Everyone's problems became her own. Ten years of faithful service she gave to John Marshall; and in each of our hearts there is a monument of love to this truly great woman.

Jean M. Erbelding.

"HERE A NAIL — THERE A NAIL"

MRS. HELEN RAUSCH,
School Nurse

"WHAT'S YOUR REQUEST? I'LL NOT DENY."

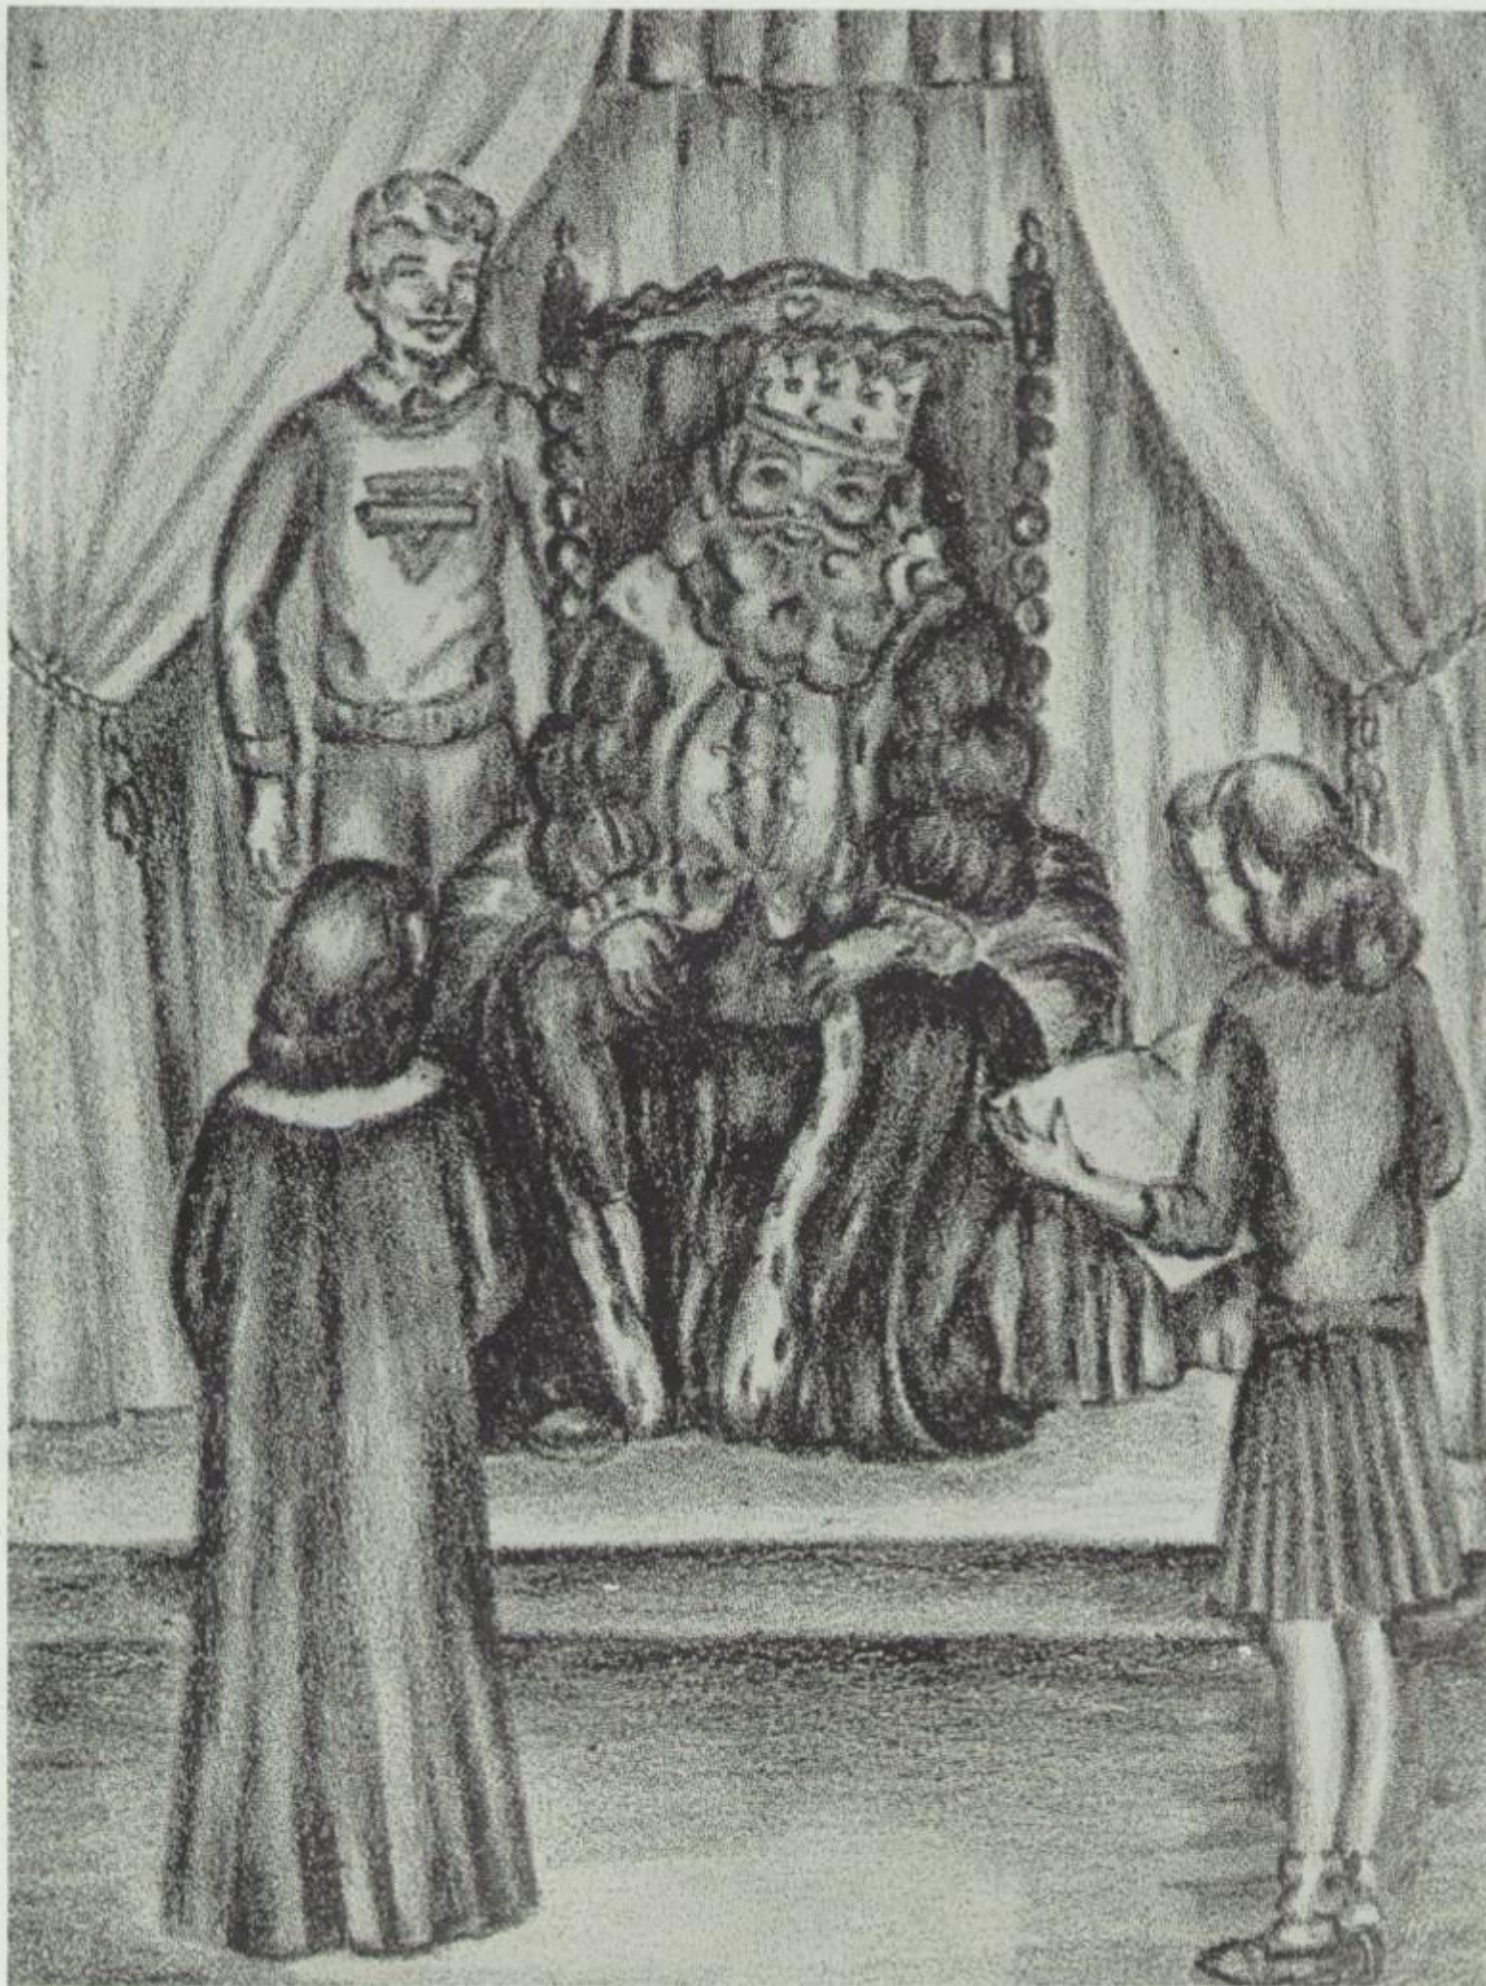

Cuts, toothaches, and illnesses of a varied sort provided appeals for medical aid from our nurse. As vacation drew near, Mrs. Rausch's office was filled with students desiring medical affirmation for work permits.

While tending to the general order of the school, Mr. Tennity and his staff were never too busy to comply with students' many requests for assistance.

Despite war-time shortages, Miss Thompson and her corps of workers managed to satisfy Marshallites' appetites.

MR. LARRY TENNITY,
School Janitor

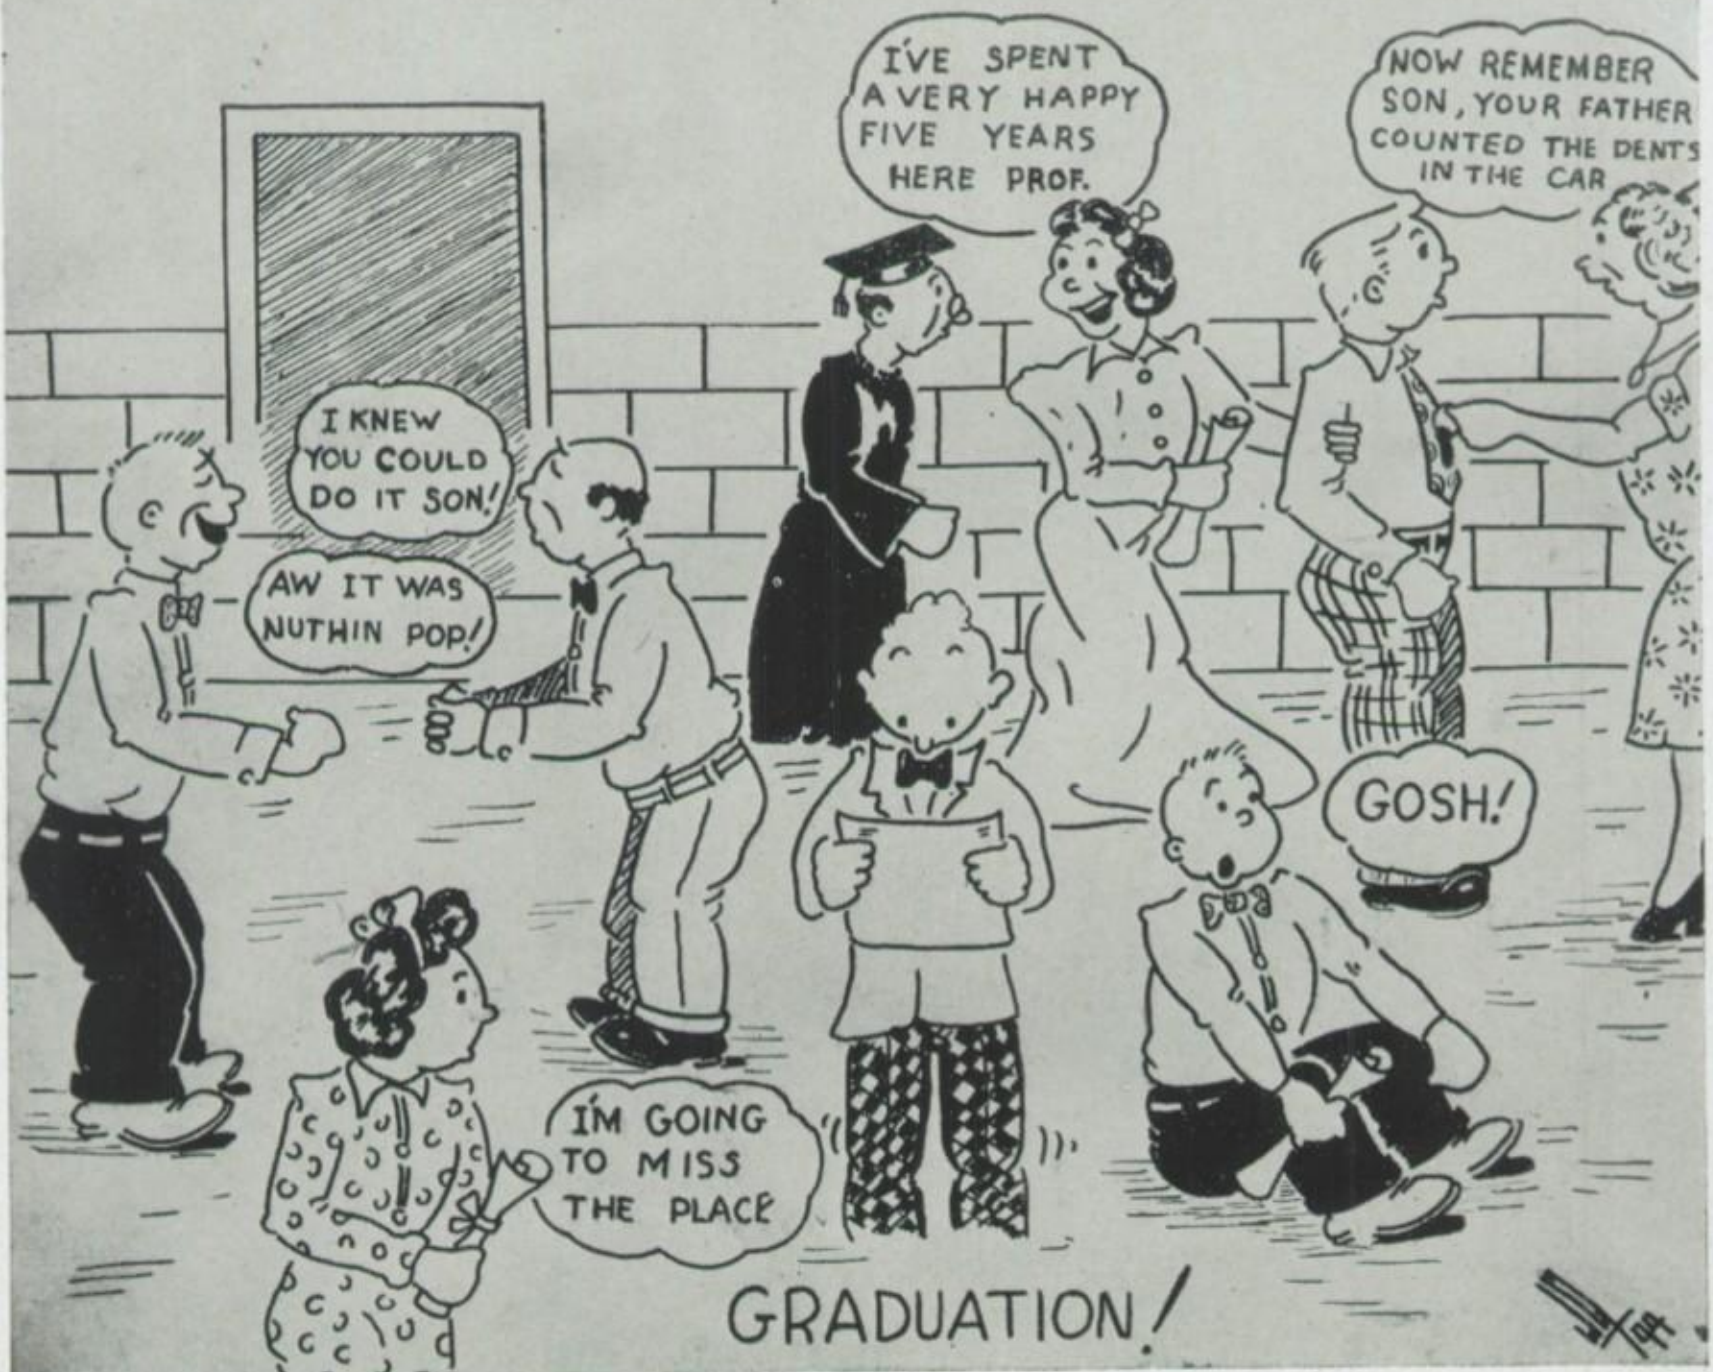

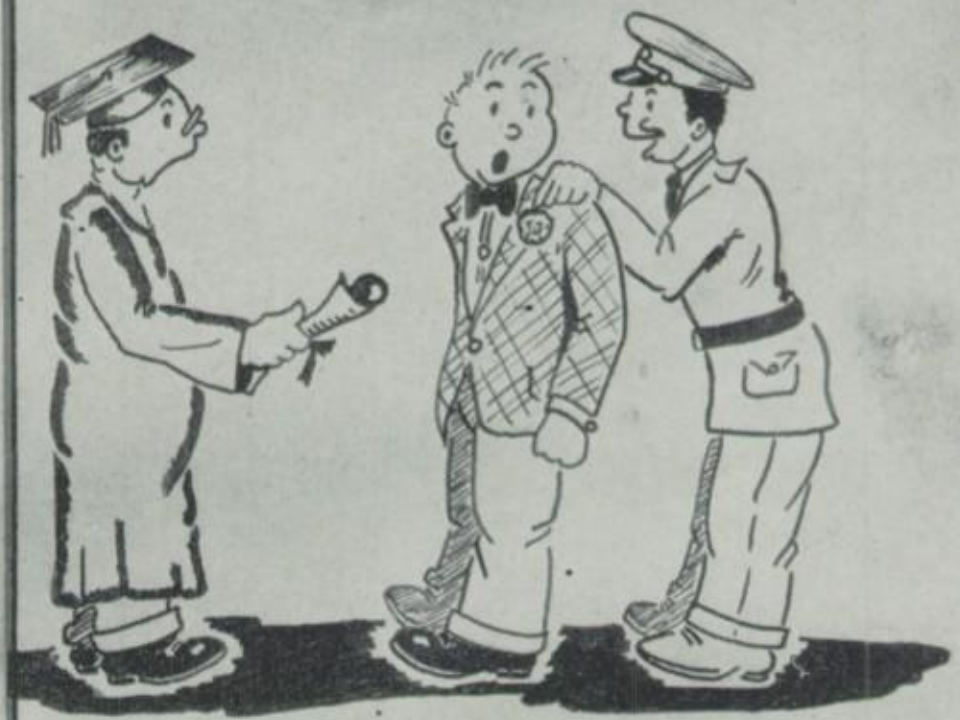

Old King Cole was a changeable soul
And extremely hard to please
He wanted to be gay, the Marshall way
So he joined some activities.

Senior choir and after-school hops,
Docket news, and Hi-Y fun—
His school day passed twice as fast
Since these activities were begun.

"IT WAS RESOLVED BY ALL"

This year's Executive Council, the first formed under the new constitution, was the active governing body on all school affairs.

Composed of fourteen members, representative of such school activities as scholarship, athletics, finance, publications, social affairs, civic service, music, and dramatics, it was better able to deal with miscellaneous school problems.

The council was largely responsible for fostering complete cooperation in Red Cross, War Bond, and scholarship drives. Under their direction the social calendar was planned under extremely difficult conditions, to include the Dungaree Frolic, Open House for servicemen, Marshall Day, after school dances, and a spring dance. The council helped recreate the National Honor Society, and campaigned for cleaning the lunchroom. Under the direction of its President, Phil Elliott, the council became instrumental in the molding of an Interhigh Council for discussing mutual problems with other schools.

"WAKE THY VOICE ANEW"

Under the direction of Charles Jackson, the Legislature acted as a supplementary governing body to the Executive Council and shared its power of passing bills concerning school affairs.

During the past year, the forty-two homeroom representatives met monthly on Tuesday afternoons to discuss suggestions made by various students and to attend to bills referred from the Council. These included the possibility of a teen canteen and of a school court, both of which were voted out; methods of taxation; the compiling of data about the school for new students; and plans for extending the present award system to include eighth graders.

"AND TOLD HIM EVERYTHING"

Through Marshall's Press Bureau our community was provided with news of school activities. Each week Dorothy Griffiths, editor, and Ruth Finch, assistant editor, worked with their staff to send news to WSAY, the "Democrat and Chronicle," and the "Tenth Ward Courier".

Students who worked on the Docket or John Quill, and contributed excellent work were rewarded with a membership to the Quill and Scroll Society. This year's society was the product of last year's journalism class.

An eleventh grade English class devoted most of its time to the study of journalism, under the guidance of Mr. Jenkins. This class provided reporters for the Docket.

SEATED: B. Braun, P. Elliott, D. Bedford, J. Smith, S. Alent. SECOND ROW: B. Slobbe, M. Lawrence, J. Hutchinson, R. LePore, M. Justice, F. Tungate. STANDING: R. Buck, L. Hackshaw, C. Jackson, B. Klee, I. Goldthorpe, B. Young, M. Scarfied, B. R. Hyand, J. Parker, Mr. Jenkins.

"SHE BRINGS US GLAD TIDINGS"

Amidst a battery of typewriters, a snapping of gum, and the dripping of fudgicles Marshall's Docket grew and developed.

Like Mary's little lamb who followed her mistress everywhere, Marshall's Docket haunted its editors with responsibility for garnering the news of the school.

Contending with difficulties, the Docket staff, headed by Elizabeth McFadden, first term editor, and Ann Lawrence, second term editor, managed to get the paper out on schedule. Hampered by printing obstacles, the staff sometimes had to work until seven o'clock on Monday, the make-up night.

Both editors were Seniors, selected from the Journalism Class of the previous year. The Junior Class elected the editors for the following year, and assumed the responsibility of putting out the last editions.

The Docket played an ever increasing role in school life, seeking to embody Marshall traditions, to interpret Marshall to the city, and to point the way to a better and fairer future.

"COME WITH A GOOD WILL OR NOT AT ALL"

Marshall's colors were displayed on the field and in the cheering section, where orange and blue clad figures led Marshall rooters in verbal exercise to cheer our team on to higher goals. Those leaders and the main force of the cheering section were the products of the Varsity Club.

White uniforms were also seen on Marshall's field as the majorettes performed with the band. These girls met every week to perfect timing and to practice the intricate skill of handling a baton. Although most of the girls had no previous experience in this type of activity, the club has produced many stars in its brief existence.

"HEY DIDDLE, DIDDLE THE CAT AND THE FIDDLE"

The cow jumped over the moon to the tune of the cat and his fiddle and Marshallites too were aroused by the tunes of the band and orchestra during the past year.

Majorettes strutted, cheerleaders cavorted, students shouted to the melodies played by the band at all football and some basketball games.

Marshallites marched down the assembly aisle and sang school songs under the leadership of either the band or orchestra.

Actors and actresses waited in the wings for their musical cues while other performers relied on one or the other of the organizations to provide a suitable musical background.

Although the band and orchestra were trained separately by Mr. Geschwind, many of the same students were in both organizations; several were also members of the Inter-high band and orchestra.

Jack was nimble, Jack was quick
Jack jumped over the candlestick.
Jack liked sports; the players agreed
They found it hard to equal his speed.

The obstacle course held no fears for him,
He liked cross-country and he liked to swim.
In football and basketball he found great joy
For Jack was an all-Marshall boy.

"TOM, TOM MARSHALL'S SON"

Fighting hard and never lacking in spirit, the Marshall eleven copped fifth place in the league racking up a record of three wins and four defeats. Coach Bushnell and his assistant, Mr. Eike, turned out an aggressive and well-balanced team.

After succumbing to Madison, who eventually won the interscholastic crown, by an 18-0 score, the Marshall aggregation bounced back trouncing Monroe, 21-0.

The Orange and Blue suffered defeats at the hands of Jefferson and Charlotte before downing Franklin. A loss to Edison and a smashing 20-6 victory over East rounded out the season.

"Pooch" Schroth displayed his remarkable ability and versatility throughout the campaign. "Pooch" was honored by being chosen fullback on both all-scholastic first teams.

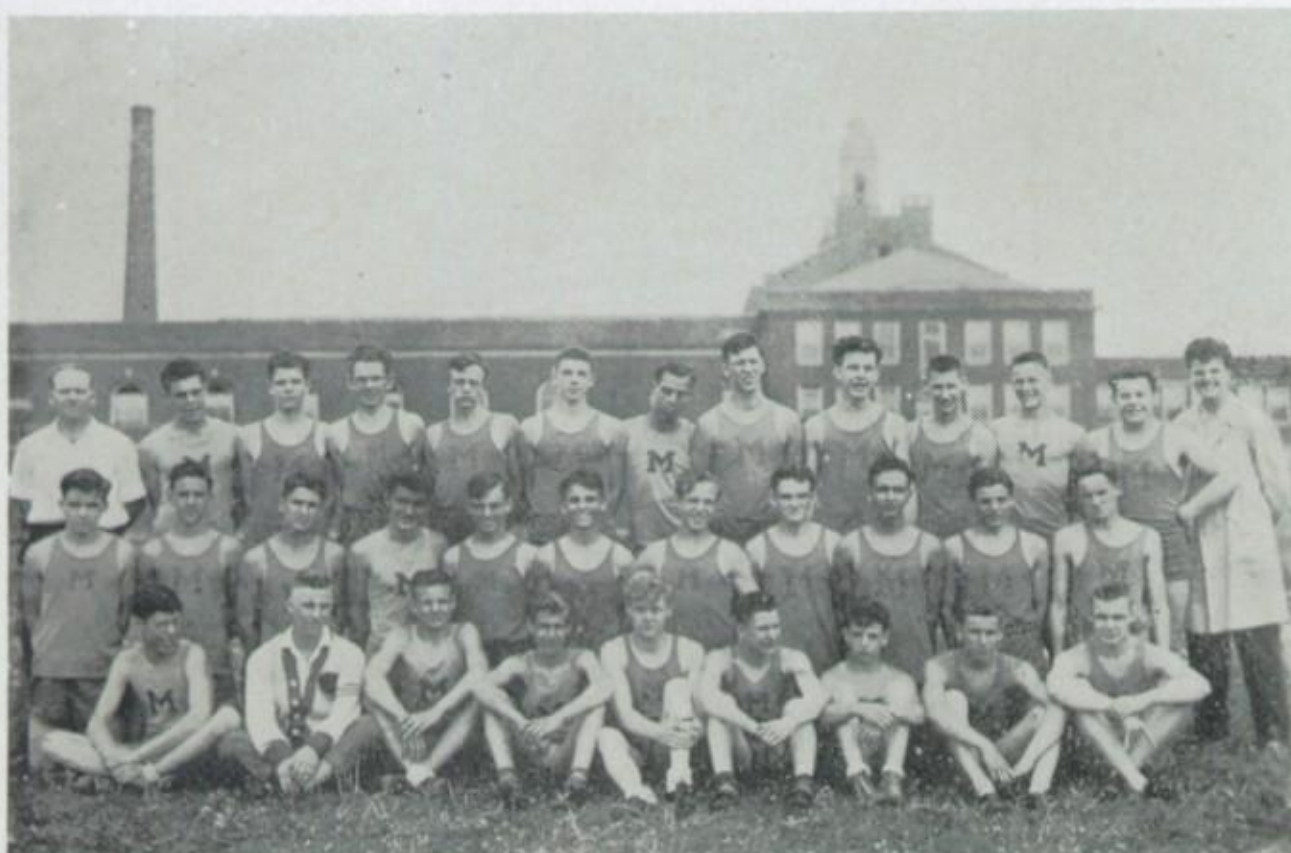

Walt Young, who sparked the light line with his stellar play at center, also won an all-scholastic berth. Charlie Peer, Charlie Yaeger, and Jack Lacy received honorable mention.

"CATCH ME IF YOU CAN"

Taking a third place in the Inter-Scholastic league, Marshall's 1944 track team showed great ability and perseverance.

Under their new coach, Mr. Bushnell, the team worked tirelessly to mold a smooth working team.

Carrying the Marshall banners in individual honors were Pat Dinolfo, city hurdling champion, Jack Phillips, city shot-put champion, and Jack Benzoni, runner-up in 440 yard spurt.

"AND MERRILY JUMP THE STILE, BOYS"

With sophomores, Dick Johnston and Terry Parshall, pacing the harriers on the Cobbs Hill paths, the Wright-coached runners captured three seconds and one third to gain sixth place in the league.

In the city individuals Dick Johnston garnered sixth place to rate an All-Scholastic berth, and Terry Parshall obtained Honorable Mention.

"AS GOOD AS 'ERE DID SWIM"

Capturing the city-sectional championship for the fourth consecutive year, the Gerace-coached finmen broke seven pool records and one sectional time. Hugh Reinhard's 25.1 in the 50 yard freestyle bettered the record by .9 seconds.

With Hugh Reinhard and Buddy Mayfield retaining their sectional titles and Dick and Tom Schaefer gaining new ones the Geracemen also garnered the 200 yard freestyle relay title to take five out of the eight sectional firsts.

"YOUR HEELS ARE NIMBLE AND LIGHT"

1944-45 highlighted Marshall's soccer history. Under the skillful leadership of Coach Gerace, the team won seven and lost only one game. Attaining only second place, it achieved the highest scoring record in the league.

"WITH DOUBLE COURAGE STOUT AND BRAVE"

Under the guidance of their new coach, Dan Dowling, the Marshall cagers garnered seventh place in the Interscholastic loop, winning five games and losing eleven. Spencerport was defeated twice in non-league contests.

Pacing the squad, Jack MacMillan, received a third team forward berth on the All-Scholastic team, while Pooch Schroth and Jim Waldorf were given honorable mention.

"HOME AGAIN, HOME AGAIN"

Losing five of their eight encounters by one run, Marshall's orange and blue stickmen placed last in the 1944 league.

Coached by Dewey Cowers, the team excelled in better than average pitchers.

Bill Gahagan was honored with a berth on the All-Scholastic third team, and Don Haefele, Dick Pettinger, and George Hurtibus received honorable mention.

"THERE IS NONE SO RARE"

Each Monday afternoon a score of girls gathered with Miss O'Connor in the girls' gymnasium to engage in a wide variety of games such as baseball, basketball, volley ball, advanced apparatus work and tumbling. The two student managers for this Games Club were Beverly Corbett and Shirley Williams.

On Friday afternoons, a group of Marshall's femmes invaded the badminton courts. Mrs. Holcombe stressed coordination and enjoyment in the management of this club. Arlene Casperson managed the club during both semesters.

Your Government asks you to save
GAS and ELECTRICITY

There is a critical shortage of coal and oil, both of which vital war fuels are used in the production of gas and electricity. The United States War Production Board urges you to cut down on your use of gas and electricity wherever possible in order that more coal and oil may be available for the war effort.
